

When Laura smiles

from A Booke of Ayres set forth to be sung to the Lute, 1601

Philip Rosseter (1576/78 -1623)

G C D G D G D

When Lau - ra smiles, Her sight re - vives
The Spi - rits That re - maine
Di - an - a's eyes Are not a - dorn'd

G C D G G C D G

Both night and day. The Earth and Hea - ven
In float - ing air; air; Than Lau - ra's pas - time
With great - er pow'r when

D G D G C D G

View with de - light Her wan - ton play.
To un - twine Her tress - ed haire.
She lifts a - while For sport to loure.

F C Dm E Am G Em

And her speech with ev - er last - ing
 And the birds think sweete Au - ro - ra,
 But when she her eyes en - clo - seth,

Am G C Dm F G

mu - sicke doth re - paire The cru - el morn - ing's Queene, doth shine From her - el blind - nesse doth ap - peare The chief - bright est

C Em Am G D G

wounds of sor - row, and un - tam'd des - paire.
 sphere, when Lau - ra shows her looks di - vine.
 grace of beau - tie sweet - ly seal - ed there.