

Mark how the blushful morn

from British Library Add. Ms. 11608

Nicholas Lanier (1588-1666)

Dm Dm Bb Gm Dm

Mark So how the may'st thou blush - ful morn thrive in love, in vain fond boy:

Dm Am Gm F F C#dim Dm

Courts the am - 'rous ma - ri - gold With sigh - ing
If si - lent tears and sighs dis - cover Thy grief, thou

A Dm Gm A Dm A(no3rd)

blush and weep - ing rain, Yet she re - fu - ses to un - ne - ver shalt en - joy The just re - ward of a bold

D Dm Dm C F D

fold; lover; But But when when the the pla - net of the day Ap - lover; But But when when the the mo - ving ac - cent (thou) Shalt

G E A Dm C#dim Dm A Dm Gm

proach - eth with his pow'r - ful ray, Then she spreads, con - stant faith and ser - vice vow, Thy Ce - lia shall

E F D G E A F A D

then she re - ceives, His warm - er beams in - to her vir - gin leaves.
 re - ceive those charms, With o - pen ears, and with un - fold - ed arms.